

Moisture is added by drawing air through a matrix made of coated paper. Roof fans help reduce condensation.

'Underfloor laterals are more expensive to install than the half-round tunnels used in Mr Mason's first store,' Ray Andrews admits, 'but you've got to control ventilation properly. We get 100% airflow in this store – with his half-round system we could not guarantee that.'

CROP Systems Ltd is giving an extended warranty on Evolution crop sensors. 'We are so confident that we're offering three years' peace of mind for our customers,' says Mr Andrews. 'We've heard from farmers who say that failures are an increasingly expensive problem but, quite truthfully, we can say that, providing you don't abuse our sensors, we suffer negligible failures.

'On our biggest single site there are 286 sensors and only six of those have ever strayed outside the standard deviation of +/- 0.3°C in five years, the prime cause of these failures being damage from mis-use.'

'If at anytime in its first three years of life a customer believes a sensor is faulty, he can return it undamaged and we will replace it.'
